

ABSTRACT

A mesh reinforced breathable plastic film combines the vapor permeability of breathable plastic films with the strength characteristics of mesh reinforced films. A plastic mesh layer having a netlike structure reinforces a breathable layer. The mesh reinforced breathable plastic film can be used to securely contain items that require vapor to escape during travel or storage.